CALL FOR PAPERS

First deadline for submissions is June 29, 2012

Special Sexuality Issue of

New Voices in Psychology

Guest editors: Caretha Laubscher and Khonzi Mbatha

We invite submissions for a special issue of the journal New Voices in Psychology on sexuality research. This special issue is intended to highlight positive sexual health contributions from authors from South Africa, Africa and international authors. The issue will not focus on one area of sexuality research, but is open to contributions on all aspects of sexuality related research. We have identified the following thematic areas of potential interest:

- Positive Sexual Health and Well-being
- Sexual Pleasure
- Sex and Commitment
- Marriage / Family / Parenting
- Sexuality Education
- History, Culture, Media and Religion
- Sexuality across the lifespan (childhood, adolescence, adulthood)
- Biology and Hormones
- Sexual Health, Sexually transmitted Infections and Dysfunction
- Discrimination / Anti-gay violence
- HIV / AIDS
- Internet / Virtual communities
- Paraphilias
- Bisexuality
- Intersex and Transgender persons
- Sexual Violence
- LBGTQ
- Sexology

In addition, New Voices in Psychology will consider for publication other contributions such as:
- Book and Film reviews
- Research notes
- Interviews
- Conference reports

Manuscripts should be submitted electronically to: laubsc@unisa.ac.za
Instructions to authors can be found at https://sites.google.com/a/unisa.ac.za/new-voices-in-psychology/peer-review-process/how-to-submit-your-manuscript

Questions about the special issue can be addressed to Caretha Laubscher and Khonzi Mbatha at laubsc@unisa.ac.za or mbathk@unisa.ac.za
